Produced by The Cleverley Stone Foundation, Houston Restaurant Weeks is Houston’s most anticipated foodie event of the year and is the largest annual fundraiser for the Houston Food Bank. Celebrating 21 years of dining out and doing good in 2024, the event has raised more than $22.5 million for the Houston Food Bank, which has funded 68 million meals to those who are food insecure.

“I have heard from many of this year’s participants how important Houston Restaurant Weeks is this year,” said Katie Stone.” The industry faces many challenges, and this event allows us all to rally and support the hundreds that are on-board. This event was created by my mother, Cleverley Stone, to rally diners and “Dine out & Do Good.” We are Houston Strong – and better together!”

Additional restaurants will be added to the website through August 1st, with around 400 restaurants expected to participate this year! This year, The Cleverley Stone Foundation has modified donation amounts to $1, $3, and $5 per Houston Restaurant Weeks meal sold in response to the rising costs of goods the restaurant industry has been hit with in recent months. The lower donation amounts per meal will help operators through a difficult time, while still generating significant revenue for the Houston Food Bank.

Now in its 22nd year, Houston Restaurant Weeks is the largest annual fundraiser for the Houston Food Bank and has made a monumental impact by raising over $22 million dollars to date. The Houston Food Bank is able to turn every dollar donated into three meals, which equates to over 68 million meals for food-insecure Houstonians. Expect an extensive list of Houston's hottest, newest, and most popular restaurants, all joining forces for Houston's most anticipated foodie event of the year offering specially priced, multi-course prix fixe menus for brunch ($25), lunch ($25), or dinner ($39 or $55), available for dine-in and take-out.
